'Open Access publishing enhances my service to society'

LOOKING FURTHER

Publishing Open Access (OA) means you provide unrestricted online access, free of charge, to the results of your research. Depending on your situation there are different options.

GOLD ROAD

Gold OA journals provide immediate free access to scientific articles on the publisher's website. Some openaccess journals do not ask for a financial contribution, others require you to pay an article processing charge (APC). Check the VU Journal Publishing Guide for Gold OA journals in your field: www.ub.vu.nl/openaccess

Free or discount rates for Gold OA publishing

In order to stimulate OA publishing VU University Library has made OA arrangements with a number of major publishers thus enabling VU and VUmc scientists to publish their articles OA free of charge (APC waived) or at a reduced rate in high quality journals. Check the VU Journal Publishing Guide for VU/VUmc deals: www.ub.vu.nl/openaccess

GREEN ROAD (SELF-ARCHIVING)

Independent of the initial publication, you can always also self-archive your article in the VU PURE repository. For self-archiving there are no costs involved. Depositing your publications in VU PURE enhances the visibility of your work. Please check you publisher's policy on self-archiving. Some publishers allow you to archive a final version, others only allow post prints. Publishers may also place an embargo on (versions of) the publication.
